Words cannot express our loss today. No man knows the mind of God and why things happen the way they do but we can all rest assured that with God all things are possible and a day with the Lord is better than a thousand days without him. Family, rest assured that you will see our brother again. Praise God. Love you all and may the grace of God our Savior be upon you as you lay our brother to rest. Ford Family

“ I was very sorry to learn of this brother's passing. I recall seeing him in church numerous times. It broke my heart to hear of his passing. If and when we are to return to physical worship service inside of the building it will be hard not to see him there anymore. I wish him and his family peace and comfort during this difficult time.....

“ *My brother beloved in the harvest of our Lord and Savior Jesus the Christ...
God knew from before you were planted as a seed in your mother's womb...
As your original Creator, He has requested that you come back to him for eternity..
The tears have flowed, the whys have been asked, yet I still believe that to be absent in the body is to be present with the Lord.. You have the victory! Stephanie, you did the best you could, so you did well!
