“ My dad was the man who taught me so many things that were meant for men. He wanted me to be strong and not depend on a man, his words. He loves me for who I was and I loves him for who he was. We had such an unspoken understanding of each other. I will miss his calls and his nick names for me. He was so good to me my entire life. I could always depend on him. I will miss him and love him til I part this world. I love you daddy.
