“ Ms. Lillian, I will never forget the graciousness and hospitality you showed me, my father, and my young son on our last visit to your lovely home. You were a wonderful mother to both your sons, and I can see your strength and character in your youngest, Bob. I know that they both loved you and will miss you terribly, but they are comforted by the fact that you are now at peace and free of pain. I feel certain that by now you are dancing and singing with the angels and enjoying the reunion with your beloved husband, and your parents and siblings. I will miss sending you flowers, but I will always think of you, especially on your birthday and Mother's Day. Never forget that you were loved by all whose lives you touched! Farewell, Lovely Lady!
