Pawel is survived by his two sons; Alex and Robert, his daughters in-law; Adelina and Juanita, his three granddaughters; Jacquelyn, Melynda, and Allison and his older sister, Wacława Chrzumniecka. Pawel lived in Poland until 1979, when he moved to West Germany. Over the following two years he managed to get his family to join him. He then managed to get political refugee status, and in 1984 he and his family moved to the USA, where for the first few years they lived in San Antonio, TX. Pawel was an ambitious man. Aware of better work opportunities and a high demand for his trade in Connecticut, Pawel moved to Stamford, CT in 1987 where he lived most of the rest of his life. In Pawel's younger professional life, he was a master car mechanic, then he became a heavy construction welder working on steel bridges, sluices and high-rise buildings, and in his later life he became a master carpenter. He was happiest when he was working, visiting with family and friends or riding his motorcycle.
