“ I worked with Rick in the field at Charter and no matter how bad my day was going, Rick always had a greeting, smile and a handshake with a great attitude to make me forget my woes and walk away laughing. Sometimes we would not see each other for months as our jobs would keep us busy, but we always greeted each other with respect and Rick’s “hey shot man” a reference to an old colleague from years before we both knew and worked with. Rick will be truly missed.

“ Camping in Kittatinny, go karting at the abandoned warehouse in Seymour, South Park and the Simpsons, getting schooled in NASCAR - just a few of the firsts I experienced with you. You were the quiet “funcle”. Grateful I had as many years with you as I did and I know you’re going to be watching over all of your kids and grandchildren. Rest in peace - you will be greatly missed.
